This list of procedures includes but does not limit to:

The methodology is a confidential document of Rating-Agentur Expert RA GmbH and shall not be fully disclosed. The Short version of the methodology containing all information and criteria required by the Regulations of the European Parliament and of the Council shall be disclosed on the official web page of the Agency. Separate methodologies are developed for each type of rating.
3. Rating action – means determination of an initial credit rating, an upgrade of an existing credit rating, a downgrade of an existing credit rating (including to a default category), an affirmation (or confirmation) of an existing credit rating, or a withdrawal of a credit rating.
4. The rating methodologies of Rating-Agentur Expert RA GmbH are designed to be rigorous, systematic and continuous.

5. Rating-Agentur Expert RA GmbH applies the following measures to ensure that its methodologies are rigorous:
 - The methodologies are designed containing clear and robust controls and processes of their implementation, development, review and update.
 - The driving factors included in the methodologies are all relevant for determining the creditworthiness of the rated object and their relevance is checked against historical experience, statistical information and market developments.
 - The methodologies are regularly tested and various kinds of relationships between driving factors and rating objects are modelled.
 - Regular check of the relevance of the key credit rating assumptions is done.
 - The short version of the methodologies which is presented to the general public includes: all qualitative factors, all quantitative and key assumptions with detailed descriptions and statement of their importance, allowing full understanding of the principles of these methodologies by the general public and giving them the opportunity to make comments and provide feedback.
 - Internal procedures of the Agency allow timely review and update of the methodologies.
6. Rating-Agentur Expert RA GmbH applies the following measures to ensure that its methodologies are systematic:
 - The methodologies and associated analytical models, key rating assumptions and criteria are applied systematically for assigning credit rating.
 - The methodologies are systematic because they follow well established procedures and have well-defined structure. In addition, the methodologies have clear and established paths to follow, i.e. the factors and variables that should be assessed and measured are understandable, transparent and measurable. Thus, the expert of the rating service is using a systematic approach to reach a rating score by following the methodologies.
7. Rating-Agentur Expert RA GmbH applies the following measures to ensure that its methodologies are continuous:

 - b) The Agency assures that the methodologies are continuous by ensuring that they stay up to date regarding any changes in the underlying assumptions and external conditions. If such changes are noted, new findings would be implemented in the methodology, unless there are serious objective reasons to develop new methodologies.
8. Job descriptions with detailed list of responsibilities for each job position existing in the staff list of the Agency facilitate consistent application of the methodologies by all employees participating in the rating process and, at the same time, give clear instructions to the employees not participating in the rating process to refrain from any interference with this process.
 9. The credit ratings assigned by Rating-Agentur Expert RA GmbH should be considered as assigned by the company and not by some individual employee. The decisions on the credit rating score are made by the rating committee consisting of a number of experts and the head of the rating service. Regulation on the rating committee assures accuracy of the decision making process taking place on the rating committee. Furthermore, Rating-Agentur Expert RA GmbH has included in its internal procedures a rotation mechanism which ensures that a responsible expert is not participating in assigning ratings to a rating object for more than 3 consecutive years and a reviewer for more than 4 consecutive years.
